5. Risk Assessment Process

- 5.1 When assessing risks in Inclusion Education, we will follow the process outlined below.
- 5.2 We will also involve staff, where appropriate, to ensure that all possible hazards have been identified and to discuss control measures, following a risk assessment.
- 5.3 Step 1: identify hazards – we will consider activities, processes and substances within Inclusion Education and establish what associated-hazards could injure or harm the health of staff, learners/students and visitors.
- 5.4 Step 2: decide who may be harmed and how – for each hazard, we will establish who might be harmed, listing groups rather than individuals. We will bear in mind that our learners/students may have special requirements, for special educational needs (SEN) and expectant mothers. We will then establish how these groups might be harmed.
- 5.5 Step 3: evaluate the risks and decide on control measures (reviewing existing ones as well) – we will establish the level of risk posed by each hazard and review existing control measures. We will balance the level of risk against the measures needed to control the risks and do everything that is reasonably practicable to protect people from harm.
- 5.6 Step 4: record significant findings – the findings from steps 1 to 3 will be written up and recorded in order to produce the risk assessment. A risk assessment template can be found in appendix 2 of this policy.
- 5.7 Step 5: review the assessment and update, as needed – we will review our risk assessments, as needed, and the following questions will be asked when doing so:
 - Have there been any significant changes?
 - Are there improvements that still need to be made?
 - Have staff or learners/students spotted a problem?
 - Have we learnt anything from accidents or near misses?
